Calendar Options for Families: The Lincoln Public Schools District understands and appreciates that our community has a wide variety of rich and varied religious celebrations and observances. In the event families recognize these holidays, parents should notify schools. Students will be given excused absences and allowed reasonable opportunities to make up any schoolwork missed.

Note: Changes to the calendar may occur as a result of inclement weather or other circumstances. If sufficient school time is lost as a result of calendar changes, and it brings the total number of school hours for the year below the state minimum requirements, the Superintendent will implement a plan for making up this time, which may require additional minutes added to the day, additional days added to the calendar, days previously identified as non-student days re-scheduled as student day, or other appropriate calendar or schedule measures.

Dear Student and Families,

This handbook has been prepared for all students and parents/guardians in hopes that it will be helpful in answering questions you might have about the policies and practices of our school. Please carefully review the contents with your child. The “Important Information” booklet provided by Lincoln Public Schools also gives critical parent/student information. You may access this at lps.org and under the parent tab. Note that dates for school events are subject to change. If you have questions or concerns regarding these publications, please do not hesitate to call the school office at 436-1163.

On behalf of the entire staff, we look forward to working together to make this a productive and successful year of learning and growing for your children.

Mrs. Monica Jochum, Principal

IMPORTANT RANDOLPH LUNCH INFORMATION

We ask that all students with guests sit at the guest table to ensure all other students have a seat in the cafeteria. Supervisors will be present to help guide you to the correct location. If you are eating a school lunch, please call the school by 10:00 to place your order. You will also need to bring exact change for your meal. Guests may purchase a lunch from the cafeteria or bring their own food. Guests may bring lunch for the student that they are visiting but cannot bring food for any other children due to the State and Federal Food Program guidelines. If a guest other than the child's guardian is having lunch with them, we ask that the guardian make the school aware before the guest arrives. We will not allow students to eat lunch with guests without the guardian's permission.

FIRE, TORNADO AND EMERGENCY DRILLS

All schools have periodic drills so that students know what to do in case of a fire, tornado or other emergencies in order to be safe. The safety of students is a top priority. Parents with specific questions should contact the office. As such, parents should not attempt to come to school during a tornado warning. School officials are not permitted to release students from the school building during a tornado warning. Parents who arrive may join the children in the designated area. Staff will not be available to meet or assist parents coming to the school during a tornado warning since they will be totally occupied with children in their respective shelter locations.

POSITIVE REINFORCEMENT

At Randolph Elementary School we strive to give students positive feedback frequently. Our students are recognized frequently throughout the school day with ticket incentives for doing a great job during the school day. These tickets go into drawings for weekly incentives and a larger monthly drawing in the cafeteria.

Classrooms will earn recognition for following school expectations. The awards are named after our therapy dogs. Our goal is to be able to recognize all students throughout a school year. Students are also recognized monthly for their effort in the classrooms with effort awards.

GIFTS, TREATS AND INVITATIONS

Invitations will not be distributed during the school day. Phone numbers and addresses cannot be distributed by any school personnel.

Classrooms recognize birthdays in a variety of ways. Students are not allowed to bring birthday treats (edible or nonedible). Please do not send gifts, party favors, balloons or flowers.

These items will not be delivered to classrooms.

Money cannot be collected to buy gifts for school personnel. Exceptions can be made in the case of personal misfortune, or if a special honor is being given to a student, parent/guardian or school staff member.

HISTORY OF RANDOLPH SCHOOL

The history of the development of Randolph School begins back in the past century with the arrival of Lyman Frost and his family in Lincoln in 1868. The first school in the present Randolph area was in the upstairs of this pioneer's home located at what is now the Northeast corner of 33rd and Randolph Streets. The farm of Lyman Frost extended from 3rd to 40th Street with Randolph Street, then just a country dirt road as its southern border. The school consisted of 8 children and was taught by an older daughter of Mr. Frost while a small building was being erected on the Southeast corner of 33rd and Randolph Streets.

This building and the larger one that followed were the centers of social life for the community until a tornado demolished it. This building was called the “Frost School.” Randolph school was never rebuilt in that location. For a time it was held in an old building farther south and in a rented building on the south side of Randolph Street between 26th and 27th streets. For several years Randolph students also attended school in the old Elliott Building at 26th and O Streets until the first Randolph School was built in 1901. It was a four room brick building and was erected at 26th and Randolph Streets where a city park, American Legion Park, stands today.

Classes were held at that location until our present structure at 37th and D Streets was completed in 1926. The architect that designed the new Randolph School was Ellery Davis Sr., one of the finalists in the competition to design the new State Capitol Building. The bid was accepted in February of 1925 with a scheduled completion date of January 1926. Randolph School was built in the middle of a field. South of Randolph were cornfields and a pond which was used for fishing in the summer and ice-skating in the winter. The “Lower Playground” was not developed and was off limits to students. A creek ran through it and there were many willow trees and bushes that grew there.

Randolph School has had four additions since it was built with its latest finished in 2017. The first was in 1951 when the present Art and Music rooms along with the upstairs third grade rooms, 212 and 211 were built. As the population of the school increased there was a need for two more additions, the east wing was built in 1953 and 1955 when Randolph's enrollment reached its peak of 729 students! The most recent renovation and construction project has added a new gym, library, cafeteria, kitchen, bathrooms, classrooms and a new secured entrance.

BULLYING

If you feel that your child is being bullied by peers, please contact your child's teacher or the building principal, Monica Jochum. All reported incidences of bullying/unsafe behavior will follow the protocol outlined in Lincoln Public Schools Board Policy 5482: Anti-Bullying Policy.

Bullying is unwanted, aggressive behavior among school aged children that involves a real or perceived power imbalance. The behavior is repeated, or has the potential to be repeated, over time.

In order to be considered bullying, the behavior must include:

- Imbalance of Power: Kids who bully use their power—such as physical strength, access to embarrassing information, or popularity—to control or harm others. Power imbalances can change over time and in different situations, even if they involve the same people.
- Repetition: Bullying behaviors happen more than once or have the potential to happen more than once.
- Hurtful aggressive physical and/or verbal behavior.

Bullying includes actions such as making threats, spreading rumors, attacking someone physically or verbally, and excluding someone from a group on purpose.

As an added prevention piece, please discuss with your child adults in the building who they can talk to if they feel that they are being bullied or are in an unsafe situation. These people may include, but are not limited to, their teacher, the administrator, school counselor, school psychologist, school social worker or any other adult in the building that they have built a positive relationship with.

Students are taught about what bullying looks like and sounds like, along with how to advocate for themselves through the District's Second Step program.

Who Will Speak for the Children

This is a time of considerable conversation, of alarming headlines, of an uncertain future. In the midst of all the clamor about budget and boundaries and buses, about levies and lids and the legislature, who will speak for the children?

Who will speak for the children—for all of the children of all of the people? Who will speak for the children of this community and of this state?

Who will speak for the five-year-olds—those who enter school knowing they can do anything, and those who will enter school having already learned, from early lives of horror that we can only barely comprehend, that they can do nothing?

Who will speak for the 12-year-olds—those who on the brink of adolescence (and in their minds, adulthood) who can read and write and spell and dance and play basketball and paint and perform, and those who on the brink of adolescence (and in their minds, adulthood) who are sullen and aggressive, withdrawn and temperamental, convinced they can do nothing and they are worth nothing—and they're the same youngster, in the same body, within a 30-minute span?

Who will speak for the 17-year-olds, those in the last semester of their senior year, with scholarships, college, and the whole world before them, and those who are on the verge of dropping out of school, of family, and of life, and who believe they have nothing before them?

Will you speak for children—for all of the children of all of the people? Will you speak for Jamie and Kelsey and Danielle, whose wonderful stories I listened to just a few days ago?

Will you speak for Nick and Amanda and Joe, who have been expelled from school but are trying to learn how to do school better the next time?

Will you speak for Jacob and John and Erica and Allison, high school students who are trying to make their schools better places for all students?

Will you speak for Seth, the musician, and Amy, the athlete, and Tyler, the inventor, and Chelsea, the writer, and James, the scientist, and Claire, the painter?

I will speak for children—for all of the children of all of the people. I will speak for children from rich families and poor families. I will speak for gifted children and for children with disabilities.

I will speak for Juan and Anya and Loc and Surya, whose families have been in this country for less than a year, and who desperately want to learn to speak English and to become American citizens.

I will speak for Toby, whose gifts in math and science are so incredible most of us can't begin to understand them, and for Tony, who is still trying to speak his first word at the age of three.

I will speak for Jody and Jerrell and Becky, whose first-grade stories paint a picture of family violence that is quite simply unspeakable. I will speak for Taylor and Phyllicia and Melissa, who have had love and care and support from their families—always.

I will speak for Michael, who learned to read with great difficulty, and for Sarah, who seems to have always known how to read.

We must all speak for children—for all of the children of all of the people. We must speak for the children who laugh and the children who cry, the children who dream and the children who have nightmares.

We must speak for the children who learn easily and the children who struggle with every new task. We must speak for the children whose behavior is outrageous and for the children whose behavior is angelic.

We must speak for the children, not only because they are our future, but because they are children now. They have only one childhood, only one chance to be a kindergartner or a fifth-grader or a sophomore, only one chance to be a growing, developing, learning child.

In the conversation, the clamor, the talk of budgets and buses and buildings, of levies and lids and the legislature, children have no voice. Please, speak for the children.
